Dispatches received in Portland, Monday, from Malpeque, P. E. I., state that the fishing schooner Ellien W. Sawyer, Capt. John Orchard, and the Eliza A. Thomas, Capt. Bibber, while beating into Malpeque Saturday night, came indo collision, and both sunk. Other dispatches received by the owners, simply state that the vessels were ashore and full of water. The crews were saved, but the vessels will probably be a total loss. Both schooners were on their way home from North Bay, with trips of mackerel, the Sawyer having on board about 175 barrels. The two vessels were comparatively new, and were among the fluest of the Portland fishing fleet, being valued at $10,000 each. The Sawyer was owned by J. W. Sawyer & Co., Lyman, Son & Co., and others of this city, and was insured for $4,700. The Eliza A. Thomas was owned by C. A. Thomas & Co. and others of Portland, and was insured for $6,100. Both were insured in the Portland Mutual Eishing Insurance Company.

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 23, 1886.

Our Republican friends of Dexter have reason to be proud of having obtained thirty more flurality for Governor than in 1884.

It looks as shough there would be no lack of candidates in the mayorality election in New York. Five different organizations now ropose to make nominations.

Gov. Hill seems to have absolute control of the Democratic State Committee in New York. The Administration does not appear to be very popular in the Empire State, the home of President Cleveland.

Even II a base ball club doesn't win the pennant, it may find mitigating circumstances. The New York clab, according to the Tribume, has cleared $100,000 this season and all the league clubs have made somethin z.

Why will some people persist in buying state oysiers, when they can get thee, fresh ones and at a less price. Small dealers get, a lot of oysters, and it is fown or five days before they are all sold, consequently the parties that buy the last of them, get state oysters. Now it is altogether discretivith us, as we have made arrangeniques with every orthogeness in Norfolk, vanual Providence, R. I., to ship us, every day. We receive our oysters every morning by express, and by having a large wholesale trade, it enables us to turn our stock every tay, thereby giving the pailing in the first property of the pailing of Anunal Meeting of Bangor Bridge Co. A platoon of police led the way, followed by the Boston Cadet Band and Grand Canton Luzerne, of Lynn, 100 men, acting as escort to Lieut-Gen. Ut derwood and staft, of Patriarchs Militant. Three divisions of Patriarchs Militant followed, being comprised as follows: Maj.Gen. S. Eddy and staff, of the division of the Atlantic, commanding organizations from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virgir ia, District of Columbia, North and South Carolina, and Colorado.

Maj.-Gen. S. Burnet P. Imer and staff, and division of the East. comprising the First and Fourth Massachusetts regiments, First Rhode Island, First Separate Battalion of Mussachusetts Sciond and Third Massachusetts regiments.

Maj. Gen. Franklin El is and staff and division of Ohlo, comprising such delegations as were present from Indiana, Ohlo, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. This portion of the procession was its most marked and i teresting feature, the brilliant uniforms, the marching, skilful evolutions and splendid appearance, of the Patriarchs calling forth universal commendation.

The Main Body of Odd Fellows, was next in order; preceded by Reeyes, band, of Providence and Bunker Hill Encampment, escorting Chief MarshalCharles H. Porter and staff. This part of the procession was divided into seven divisions.

The first included Encampment Drill Association, of Bultimore, Granite Lodge, of Nashua, N. H., Crescent Lodge and Roger Williams Lodge, of Providence, the remainder of the division being composed of State organizations. The second division was made up of Rhode Island organizations under the marshalship of James Bradbury. The third, fourth, fifth and sixth divisions also comprised lodges from various parts of Massachusetts and the seventh included representatives of other Massachusetts lodges in carriages.
